In English, we have been reading 'Arthur and the Golden Rope' and have written narratives based on the adventure Arthur goes on to defeat Fenrir the wolf. We have also become monster hunters and enjoyed writing our own 'defeat the beast' guide!

In DT, we have been looking at the designer William Morris. He is famous for his repeating motifs on his fabric samples. This half term, we have explored printing techniques and had a go at creating our own samples using a block printing method, as well as, hemming our fabric and adding embroidered embellishments.

In science, we have been looking at states of matter. We have conducted lots of experiments exploring how materials change state, including a very messy experiment looking at how chocolate changes from solid to liquid through melting!
